Dear Panel Members,

I have been reading about the "Fair Tax". What a great idea: Taxing consumption, instead of income. If you buy a lot of expensive things, you pay a lot of tax. If you don't buy much, you don't pay much tax. The most important thing is that it is your choice. A national sales tax could not only be more fair, but you could even eliminate the IRS, the nightmare tax codes, fix social security, and April 15 would just be another spring day!

Please stop tinkering with the tax code and settle it once and for all. Income tax is unfair, ineffective and wasteful. The answer is here...it is the Fair Tax, the National Sales Tax. I hope you will consider it.

Sincerely,

James A. Walker
